

Indiana University Southeast

Approval Process Club Sport

Introduction:

The Club Sports at Indiana University Southeast are a group of individuals who has a common interest in a sport or activity. The club interests may consist of being a competitive sport, recreational or instructional. Each club sport is organized and governed by the student members within the respective club. All club sports major objective will be on student involvement, development and participation.

New Club Sport:

Students, faculty and staff who are interested in starting a new club sport must meet with the Intramural & Fitness Center Coordinator to discuss potential approval. Also, they must complete a Club Sport Information Form and other specified criteria forms. Club sports must be approved registered student organizations (RSO) before applying for club status. Information on how to become a RSO at IU Southeast can be found here: http://www.ius.edu/campuslife/involvement/how_to_start_an_organization.html

Club Sport Criteria:

- Written constitution and bylaws of the club sport
- Membership interest in the sport-at least (5) members must join to start the club sport and be recognized by the Club Sport Council
- Each member complete a Membership Form
- Elect officers (president, vice president, secretary, treasurer)
- Each club needs to have a Membership Roster Form filled with each member name, phone number, email address, mailing address.
- Faculty & Staff Advisor Form
- Fund-raising Form
- Budget Form
- Coach/Instructor Application Form

Approval Clarifications:

The final approval is made by the Intramural & Fitness Center Coordinator to become a club sport with consultation from the Athletic Director and Dean of Campus Life. All clubs that do not get approved on first try will be able to reapply the following semester.
